Choosing the Right Runner

When choosing a runner, there are a few things to keep in mind:

- The size of your table. Runners should be long enough to extend at least 6 inches beyond the edge of the table on each side. If your table is particularly long, you may want to consider using two runners instead of one.
- The shape of your table. Runners can be found in a variety of shapes, including rectangular, square, and round. Choose a runner that complements the shape of your table.
- The style of your décor. Runners come in a variety of styles, from traditional to modern. Choose a runner that matches the style of your décor.
- The occasion. If you're looking for a runner for a special occasion, such as a wedding or holiday party, you may want to choose a more elaborate runner.

Caring for Your Runners

Runners are relatively easy to care for. Most runners can be machine washed and dried. However, it's always a good idea to check the care label before washing your runner to make sure you're using the correct settings.

If your runner is made of a delicate fabric, such as silk or lace, you may want to hand wash it. To hand wash a runner, simply fill a sink or bathtub with cold water and add a mild detergent. Gently swish the runner around in the water, then rinse it thoroughly. Lay the runner flat to dry.

With proper care, your runners will last for many years to come. So experiment with different patterns and styles to find the perfect runners for your table settings.
