History and Mission

The origins of The Haskell School of Music can be traced back to the establishment of Haskell Institute, a boarding school for Native American students, in 1884. Recognizing the importance of music in cultural expression and education, the school's founders incorporated a music program into its curriculum.

Over the years, The Haskell School of Music has evolved significantly, expanding its offerings and establishing itself as a leading music education institution. The school's mission is to provide a comprehensive and transformative musical education that fosters artistic growth, critical thinking, and cultural awareness among its students.

Academic Programs

The Haskell School of Music offers a diverse range of academic programs tailored to the needs of aspiring musicians at various levels:

- Pre-College Program: This program provides musical instruction to students from kindergarten through high school, nurturing their musical talents and preparing them for advanced studies.

- Graduate Program: The school's graduate program offers a Master of Music degree in Music Education, equipping music educators with the skills and knowledge necessary to inspire future generations of musicians.
- Community Education Program: The Haskell School of Music extends its reach to the community through its community education program, offering music lessons, classes, and workshops to individuals of all ages and backgrounds.

Faculty and Curriculum

The Haskell School of Music boasts a renowned faculty of dedicated and accomplished musicians who are passionate about teaching and inspiring their students. The faculty includes performers, composers, conductors, and music educators who bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the classroom.

The school's curriculum is designed to provide students with a well-rounded musical education. Students take courses in music theory, history, performance, and ensemble playing. The curriculum emphasizes the development of strong technical skills, musical understanding, and expressive interpretation.

Performance Opportunities

Performance is an integral part of the musical education experience at The Haskell School of Music. Students have ample opportunities to showcase their talents through regular concerts, recitals, and other performance events.

The school's ensembles, including the Haskell Indian Nations University Choir, Haskell Indian Nations University Band, and Haskell Indian Nations University Orchestra, perform throughout the year, both on campus and at venues across the region. These ensembles provide students with valuable experience in collaborative music-making and public performance.

Cultural Exchange and Outreach

The Haskell School of Music embraces cultural diversity and seeks to promote intercultural understanding through music. The school collaborates with Native American musicians and organizations to preserve and celebrate indigenous musical traditions.

The school also engages in outreach programs, bringing music education to underserved communities and fostering a love of music among young people. Students participate in music therapy programs, teach music lessons in local schools, and perform at community events.
