Micky Brady, a man from Liverpool, England, has a story to tell that is both bizarre and intriguing. He claims to have traveled through time both before and after his birth. If his claims are true, he would be one of the only people in history to have done so.

Brady's story begins in the year 1215, when he claims to have witnessed the signing of the Magna Carta. He says that he was present as a young boy and that he even spoke to some of the people who were there. He remembers seeing King John put his seal on the document and hearing the cheers of the people who had gathered to witness the event.

After witnessing the signing of the Magna Carta, Brady claims that he traveled to the future and met Leonardo da Vinci. He says that he spent several days with da Vinci and that they talked about art, science, and the future. Brady claims that da Vinci even showed him some of his inventions, including a flying machine.

Brady's story is full of intriguing details, but it is also full of holes. He is unable to provide any concrete evidence to support his claims, and many people believe that he is simply making them up. However, there are some people who believe that Brady is telling the truth and that he is one of the few people who has ever traveled through time.

Whether or not Brady's story is true, it is a fascinating one that raises some interesting questions about the nature of time and the possibility of time travel. If Brady is telling the truth, then it would mean that time travel is possible and that it may be more common than we think. It would also mean that the past and the future are not as fixed as we believe and that they can be changed by our actions.

Micky Brady

Micky Brady was born in Liverpool, England, on March 17, 1934. He grew up in a working-class family and left school at the age of 15. He worked a variety of jobs before becoming a self-employed businessman.

Brady began to have strange experiences in the early 1960s. He began to have vivid dreams of being in different time periods and meeting different people. He also began to experience what he called "time slips," where he would feel as though he was traveling through time.

Brady eventually came to believe that he was a time traveler. He began to share his story with others, and he has written several books about his experiences. He has also appeared on television and radio shows to talk about his claims.

Magna Carta

The Magna Carta is a charter that was signed by King John of England in 1215. The charter limited the power of the king and gave more rights to the people of England. The Magna Carta is considered to be one of the most important documents in the history of democracy.

Brady claims that he was present at the signing of the Magna Carta. He says that he was a young boy and that he even spoke to some of the people who were there. He remembers seeing King John put his seal on the document and hearing the cheers of the people who had gathered to witness the event.

Leonardo da Vinci

Leonardo da Vinci was an Italian polymath who was active as a painter, sculptor, architect, engineer, scientist, mathematician, anatomist, geologist, cartographer, botanist, and writer. He is widely considered to be one of the greatest geniuses of all time.

Brady claims that he met Leonardo da Vinci in the future. He says that he spent several days with da Vinci and that they talked about art, science, and the future. Brady claims that da Vinci even showed him some of his inventions, including a flying machine.

Time Travel

Time travel is the theoretical ability to move backward or forward through time. It is a common theme in science fiction, but there is no scientific evidence to support the possibility of time travel.

Brady claims to have traveled through time both before and after his birth. He says that he was present at the signing of the Magna Carta and that he met Leonardo da Vinci. His story is full of intriguing details, but it is also full of holes. He is unable to provide any concrete evidence to support his claims, and many people believe that he is simply making them up.

However, there are some people who believe that Brady is telling the truth and that he is one of the few people who has ever traveled through time. If Brady is telling the truth, then it would mean that time travel is possible and that it may be more common than we think. It would also mean that the past and the future are not as fixed as we believe and that they can be changed by our actions.
