Plot

Emily (Madison) is a young woman who is struggling to come to terms with the death of her husband. She meets Patrick (Belfi), a widower who is also struggling to move on from his wife's death. The two of them begin a relationship, but they soon realize that they have different ideas about how to deal with their grief.

Emily is more open to talking about her husband's death and sharing her memories of him. Patrick, on the other hand, is more closed off and guarded. He is afraid to talk about his wife and he tries to avoid anything that reminds him of her.

As Emily and Patrick spend more time together, they begin to learn more about each other. They learn about each other's strengths and weaknesses, and they learn about each other's dreams and goals. They also learn about each other's pain and sorrow.

Emily and Patrick eventually come to an understanding about how to deal with their grief. They realize that there is no right or wrong way to grieve, and that each person must find their own way. They also realize that they are not alone in their grief, and that they have each other to lean on.

Characters

Emily (Bailee Madison) is a young woman who is struggling to come to terms with the death of her husband. She is a strong and independent woman, but she is also vulnerable and fragile. She is trying to find her way in the world, but she is not sure where she belongs.
